Brigadier General Mark A. Bellini
The Quartermaster General
U.S. Army Quartermaster Center and School
Fort Lee, Virginia 23801-1601

Dear General Bellini:

I am pleased to join Colonel Will H. Horn, USA [retired] in recommending that Major General Hawthorne L. Proctor, USA [retired] be inducted into the Quartermaster Hall of Fame. I base my recommendation on General Proctor's conspicuously outstanding service in many important Quartermaster mission-related assignments, and the many contributions he has made to the QM Corps and the U. S. Army.

General Proctor had the distinction of serving as the 46th Quartermaster General, and concurrently the Commanding General, the QM Center and School. I served as the Honorary Colonel of the Quartermaster Regiment during most of his tour, and observed his outstanding leadership, and the great impact he made on our Corps and Army.

Following his retirement, General Proctor and his wife remained active in the Quartermaster community. He is clearly one of the best of the best and richly deserves induction into the Quartermaster Hall of Fame.

Sincerely,

ARTHUR J. GREGG
LT. GEN., U.S. Army (Ret)

Chairman of the HOF Board;

I am honored with the opportunity to nominate MG (R) Hawthorne L. Proctor for selection into the Quartermaster Hall of Fame.

I have known MG Proctor for over 30 years and have observed or worked with him during his entire military career. As a result, I can personally attest to his immeasurable contributions to the QM Corps and our Army.

MG Proctor has, at all levels, provided superb support to the forces around the world in peace and war. Proctor is a gifted logistician and most significantly, an outstanding mentor of soldiers and civilians.

I wholeheartedly support this nomination because Proctor possesses all of the requisite requirements and continue to me a model for our Army.

Respectfully,

General (R) Johnnie Wilson

Dear Sir:

It is my honor to add my name to Colonel Will Horn's nomination of Major General (Ret) Hawthorne L. Proctor, the 46th Quartermaster General of the Army, as a new member of the Quartermaster Corps Hall of Fame.

General Proctor has served with distinction in his military career, and I am well familiar with his service to our Army, Country, and the Quartermaster Corp as commander DSCP (DLA), and his service as the 46th Quartermaster General. In both capacities General Proctor not only met the requirement but exceed the "standard". Today's army is largely better supplied (Food, Clothing, Medical) and the Quartermasters now serving in critical positions around the world were the recipients of his leadership in a critical period of their development.

General Proctor loved soldiers and he made a difference in the leadership that is demonstrated in the Quartermaster soldier now serving in our Army. His leadership in caring for soldiers is evident; and his great contributions to the Quartermaster Corps, the United States Army, and our great nation lives on in today's Quartermaster as they serve around the world.

I hold no reservation in supporting the nomination of this outstanding and caring leader.

Very Respectfully,

CHARLES R. HENRY

Dear Sir:

It is an honor to add my endorsement to Colonel Will Horn's nomination of Major General Hawthorne (Peet) Proctor for selection to the Quartermaster Hall of Fame. I have known Peet since his command as a Colonel at the Quartermaster Center in the late 1980s. He was an impressive leader then and added accomplishments as he added rank and responsibility.

I observed his exceptionally outstanding performance at (now) Defense Supply Center Philadelphia during his command tour as he led the most significant change in operations since the founding of DLA—converting the whole organization from managing supplies to managing suppliers. Peet infused the organization with enthusiasm for change even though that change meant a complete reorientation for the a civilian workforce not accustomed to such radical change. He was open to their ideas but not afraid to make decisions.

His performance there and subsequently at DLA established a new era for Defense supply chain management and established his reputation as one of the most competent logisticians in the Department of Defense.

Peet Proctor deserves the recognition of the Quartermaster Corps as an inductee into the Hall of Fame.

Respectfully,

William Tuttle

Sir:

I have the honor to nominate Major General (Ret) Hawthorne L. Proctor, the 46th Quartermaster General of the Army, as a member of the Quartermaster Corps Hall of Fame.

I have known General Proctor personally since October 1974 when he served as the company commander of my Supply and Service Company during the time I commanded the 25th Supply and Transport Battalion.

I have outlined General Proctor's biography of distinguished service, assignments, decorations and awards, photograph, and nominee information in the enclosures.

I can best describe him as an officer to be emulated for his desire to care for his soldiers; and his great contributions to the Quartermaster Corps, the United States Army, and our great nation.

Very Respectfully,

Will H. Horn
Colonel (Ret), QM

Chronological Assignments of Major General (Ret) Hawthorne L. Proctor

Defense Logistics Agency 2001-2003

Fort Belvoir, Virginia

Directed the materiel acquisition and distribution for 4.6M items for customers located around the globe. Led over 400 personnel who provided staff oversight and analytical support of a $20B enterprise with an inventory of $80B and an operating budget of $700M.

Quartermaster General 2001

1999-

Fort Lee, Virginia

Led a corps of over 122,000 military personnel who provided direct support to the Army's 1.5M soldiers in the area of food, fuel, water, clothing and related materiel, repair parts and such services as showers, rigging of materiel for delivery by air and laundry services. Served as the 46th QM General and the first African American in 225 years to lead such an assembled body of outstanding logisticians. Trained some 25,000 men and women each year, spearheaded the "transformation" of the QM Corps, and began a 19% reduction in personnel needed to sustain a military force through the practice of "Supply Chain Management and Integration". Savings per annum was projected at $12-14M.

Chief Executive Officer, Defense Supply Center 1998 Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

1996-

Managed and led an organization of 2,000 personnel who acquired, managed and sold over $3.213B in medical materiel, food and clothing each year. Served as leader in transforming the organization from an entity that managed supplies to managing suppliers. Recognized by PBS in a documentary titled "Focus on the Future" which highlighted our changes in business process reengineering. Supervised the successful merger of two similar organizations that had to accomplish some difficult tasks including size reduction, relocation and change of the product mix and services.

ENCL 2

Senior Staff Officer
Department of Army
Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Logistics
Washington, DC

1994-1996

Served as executive to the Deputy Chief of Staff for Logistics and later served as the Director Logistics Plans and Operations. Supervised a staff of 35 people who provided oversight of strategic plans, policies, operations and retail logistics IT Systems.

Chief Operating Officer
1994
Multifunctional Logistics Organization
Schofield Barracks, Hawaii

1992-

Led an organization of over 2,500 personnel who provided a wide range of logistics supplies and services. Supported some 20,000 customers with retail supply and maintenance for vehicles, engineer equipment and rotary wing aircraft. Operated the first intermediate staging base in the Pacific Rim where logistics could be provided to a force enroute to its mission area. It enabled the development of procedures to support a force in a most dynamic fashion while under a crisis situation.

Logistics Developmental Positions
1991
Multiple Locations

1969-

Served in a variety of career enhancing jobs of increasing responsibility. Positions of leadership, management and training enabled me to become a senior logistician within the Army and Joint arena. Having served in peace and in combat, I enjoyed an up close and personal relationship with customers throughout my career. My duties ranged from a junior executive to a mid-level leader and manager. The training I received during this period coupled with my vast experiences, helped me capitalize on my abilities and grow into a senior logistician.
